Foreign Exchange Student At High School

For the first time a foreign exchange student attended Mount Gilead High School. As a part of the Kiwanis Club Foreign Exchange Student Program, Bjorn Gustafson of Taberg, Sweden, had the opportunity to experience first hand what life is like in an American high school. Bjorn applied to come to Mount Gilead after having met members of the Mount Gilead Indian basketball team at a North Carolina basketball camp. Bjorn, who spoke excellent English, was enrolled as a junior and took part in regular school classes. Members of Key Club helped Bjorn get settled into high school activities. At 6' 7" Bjorn was the tallest person in the Mount Gilead student body and a member of the varsity basketball team. While at Mount Gilead, Bjorn spoke to various groups and classes about life in Sweden. Bjorn stayed with the Doyle Shoewalter family during his November to April stay in Mount Gilead.

When the sixth graders studied about Scandinavia, Bjorn showed slides and talked about life in Sweden. He shows Rollie Thill where his hometown is in Sweden.

During a rollicking rehearsal, the star actor is turned into a donkey by a mischievous sprite named Robin Goodfellow. The Rude Mechanicals is full of chases, mistaken identities and magic.

The Mechanicals, directed by Peter Quince, perform their play for the Duke and his new bride, Hippolyta. The actors are: Lion - Snug; Moonshine - Robin Starveling; Wall - Tom Snout; Thisby - Francis Flute; and Pyramus - Nick Bottom.

Dracula Production Initiates Guest Artist

Count Dracula, a dramatized version of Bram Stoker's 19th century novel Dracula, opened the 1980-1981 Mt. Gilead High School theatre season. Full of mysterious stage effects, which included Count Dracula appearing in a dense fog and disappearing in full view of the audience, the production also initiated a Guest Artist program for the Mt. Gilead Schools. D. Scott Dillon, a theatre graduate of Otterbein College, portrayed the infamous Count Dracula in the production. Dillon, who is Production Assistant at The Country Dinner Playhouse in Columbus, brought a wide range of acting and technical experience with him to share with the Mt. Gilead students. Having appeared in a variety of roles while at Otterbein, he also completed a professional internship at The Washington D.C. Arena Stage, a leading professional theatre in the United States. Returning Director David A. Hammond initiated the Guest Artist program for this production of Count Dracula to provide Mt. Gilead students and community members with an opportunity to work with and view professional talent within the framework of an Educational Theatre.

Unnoticed by the sleeping Mina, Dracula appears in a heavy fog.

After releasing Renfield from his cell, Sybil awaits her next order from Dracula.

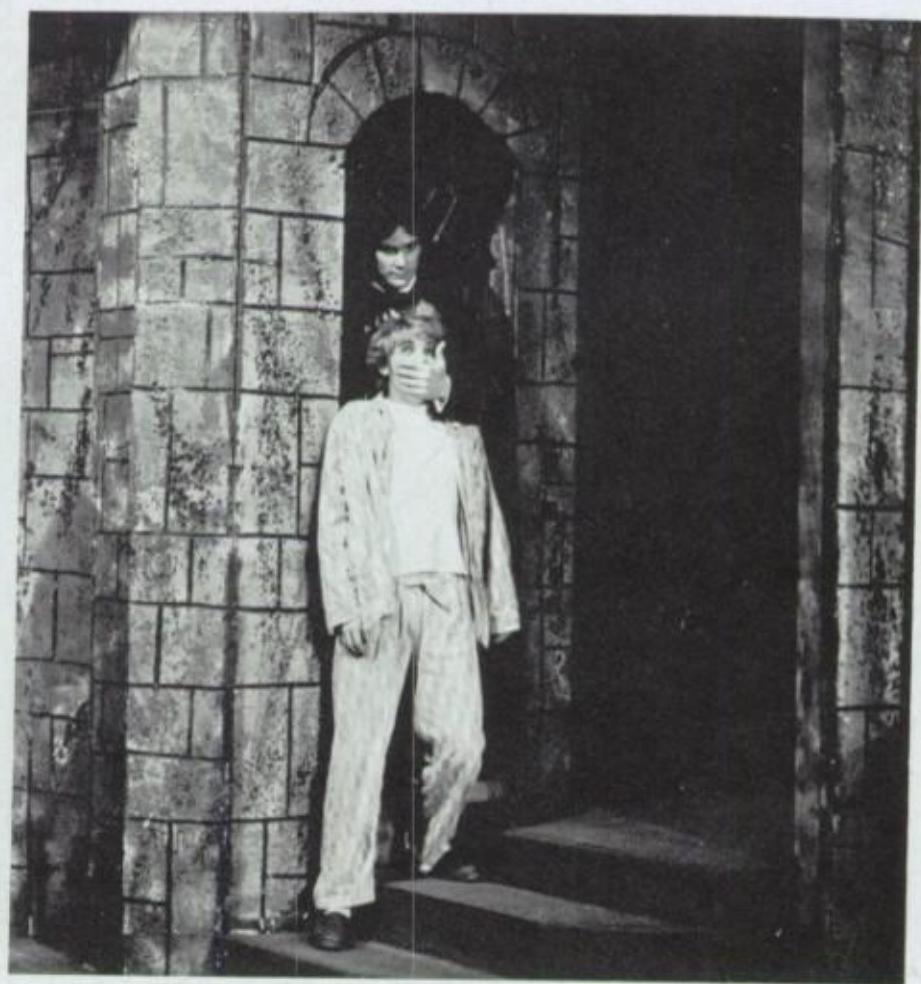

In the past 500 years Professor Van Helsing, those who have crossed my path have all died and some not pleasantly. Come here!"

Seward, Van Helsing, and Jonathan use crosses and batswort in an attempt to trap Dracula until the sun rises.

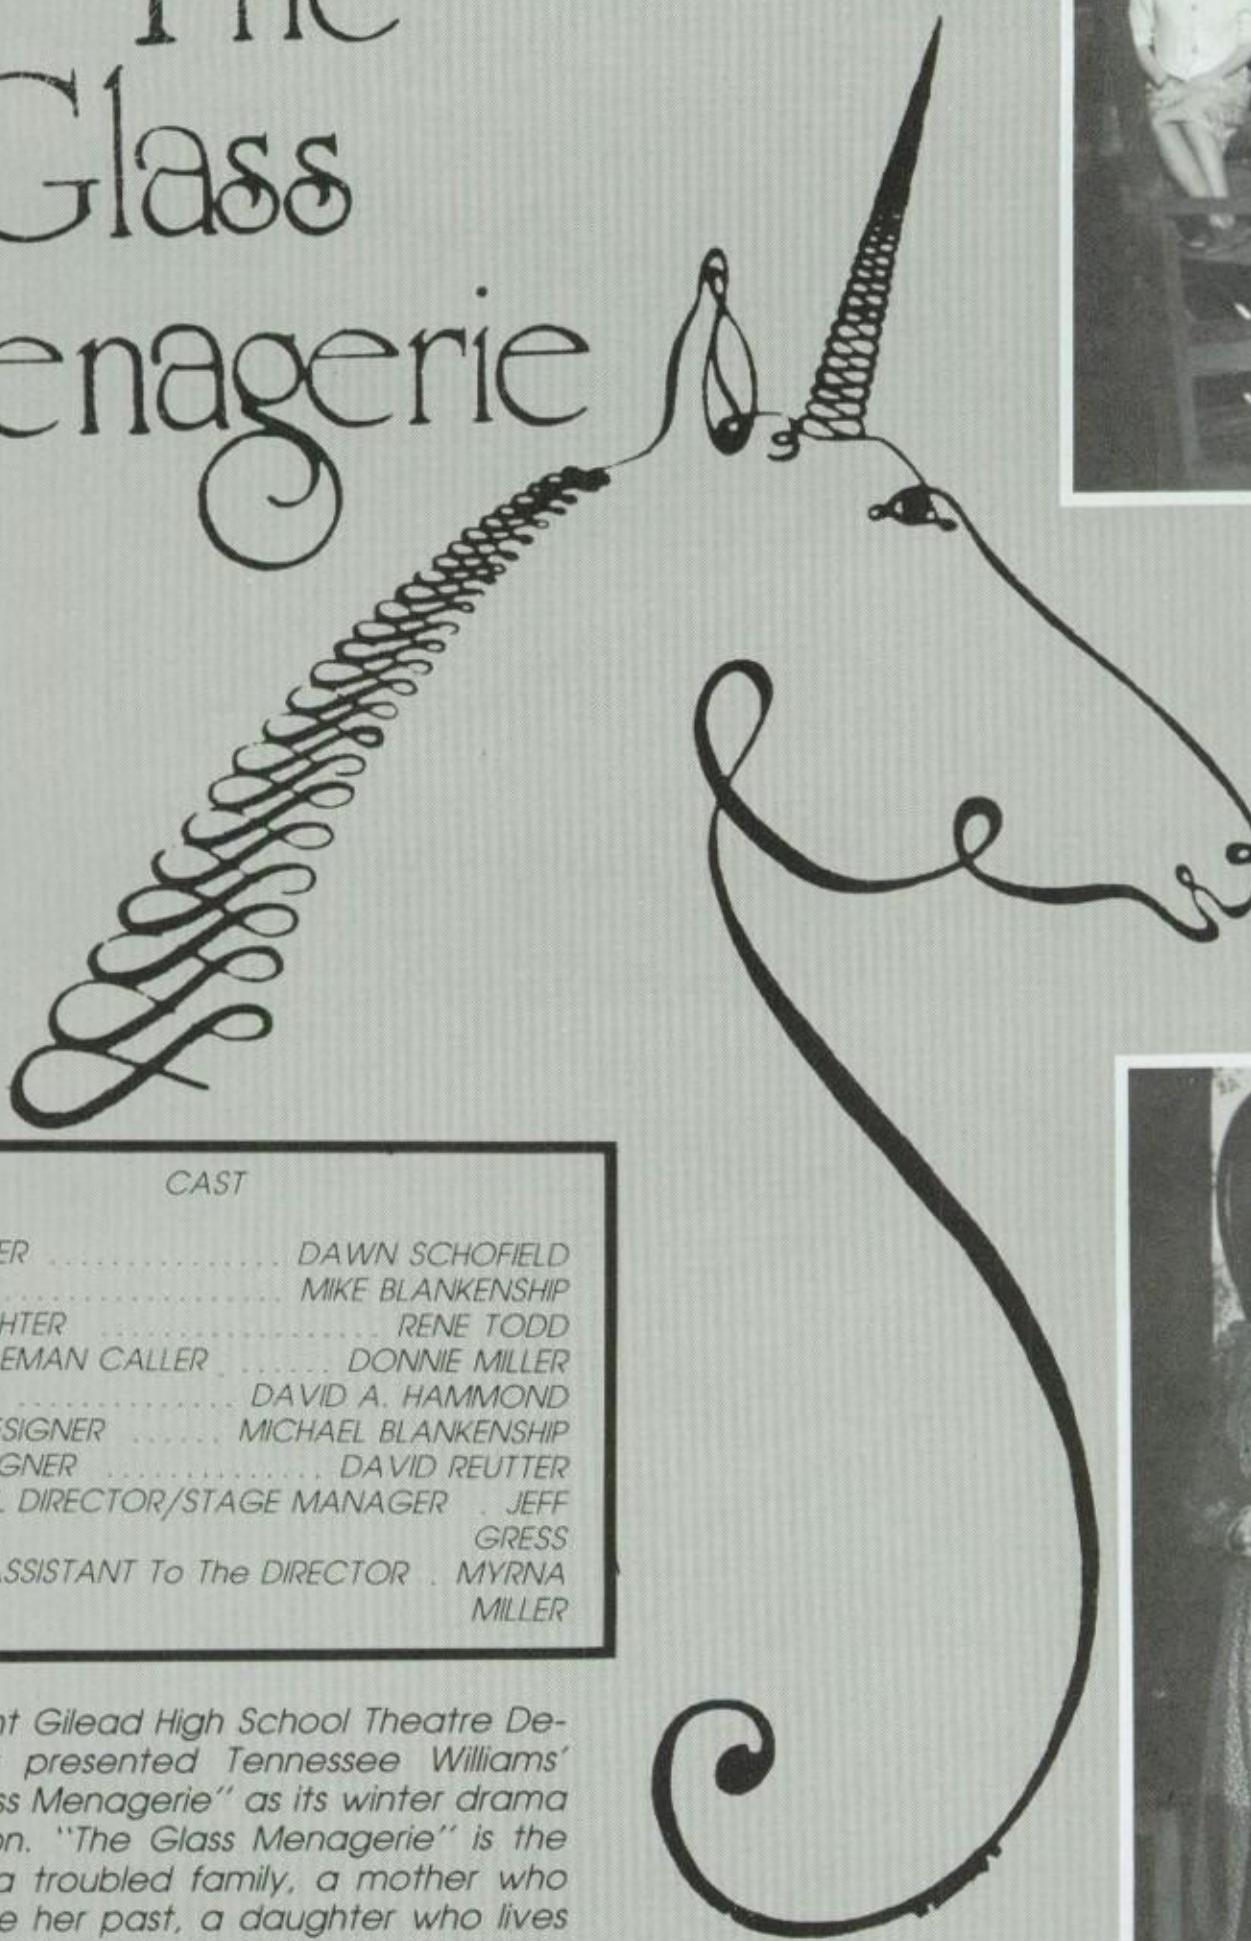

As the lovely gold locket sways back and forth, shining and catching the firelight, Sybil falls under Dracula's spell.

A bookcase swings open revealing a hidden corridor. Dracula appears and the panic-stricken Renfield becomes another victim of Dracula.

The Mount Gilead High School Theatre Department presented Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie" as its winter drama production. "The Glass Menagerie" is the story of a troubled family, a mother who lives inside her past, a daughter who lives inside herself, a son who dreams of escaping from the world which has tormented him, and a father who never was. The final character is that of the "Gentleman Caller", the long delayed, but always expected something that we live for. It is a story of dreams and their death, of ambitions, and of fate.

Original artwork by Michael Blankenship.

As Tom and Amanda sit on the fire escape listening to the music from the Paradise Dance Hall, Tom awaits the right moment to tell Amanda that Laura is going to have a gentleman caller.

Amanda pulls Laura to the window to make a wish on the moon — she wishes happiness and good fortune for her children.

Upon returning from his night out, Tom imitates Malvolio the Magician and his magic scarf for Laura.

Tom shows Jim his card for the Union of Merchant Seamen . . . his ticket to get away from home.

As Jim holds the fragile Unicorn from Laura's Glass Menagerie to let the light shine through it, he entices the delicate Laura into the world of reality.

Amanda adjusts the hem of Laura's new dress . . . just another step in preparation for the Gentleman Caller.

After stopping at Rubicam's Business College and finding out that Laura was not enrolled, Amanda returns home realizing Laura has deceived her.

Even as Tom, Amanda, and Laura sit down for a quiet dinner, Amanda continues to nag Tom . . . constantly giving him directions on how to eat.

For after-prom activities, prom goers traveled to the Southland Mall Cinema in Marion to see "The Urban Cowboy." From 3:30 to 6:00 A.M. there was roller skating at the Marion Forum.

Several couples dance to the romantic music of the Country Rock Band.

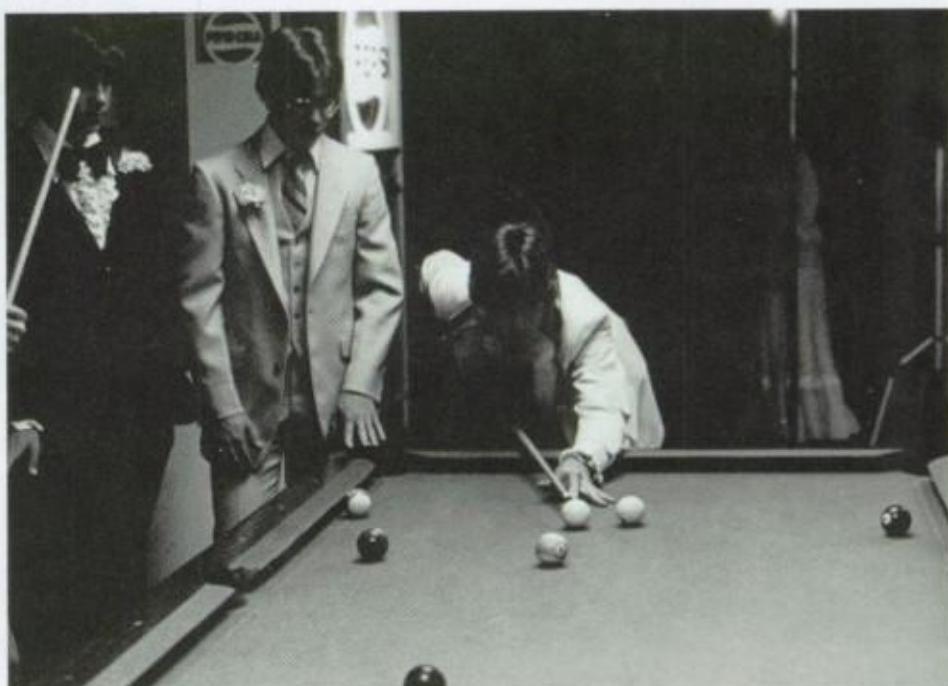

During fast numbers couples would frequently just listen to the music.

The Junior-Senior Prom cake was decorated by Mrs. Pat Brake and featured many scenes from school activities.

Mizpah Staff

Each year the Mizpah staff tries to make improvements and changes in the yearbook. The 1981 edition of the Mizpah is unusual in several ways. For the first time the senior class section of the Mizpah is printed in color. Also, the Mizpah is now the only school annual in our area that covers the school's activities from kindergarten to the senior class. Increased costs of publishing a yearbook and the problems of covering the great variety of school activities frequently create problems for the small Mizpah staff.

Cheerleaders Work To Boost School Spirit

A cheerleader's work is never done. With each new football or basketball game, most of the posters, slogans, and spirit decorations used for previous games are outdated. The cheerleaders try to make the next game one of the most important of the season. Much time and thought go into developing school spirit. Pep rallies, bonfires, and class spirit competition were used to increase student enthusiasm during football season. The tempo of activities for the cheerleading squads increases with the beginning of basketball season. Instead of one game a week the cheerleaders must prepare for several contests. Personal dedication and parental support plus a lot of time and energy make the Mount Gilead cheerleading squads an important factor in boosting school spirit.
